OFTEN BEATEN, NEVER BROKEN
Executive protection specialist training - March 21-25

Executive Protection I, a five-day course focused on preparing graduates to plan, direct and carry out operations safeguarding hose in their charge, is offered at the Homeland Security Institute at College of DuPage March 21-25.

Individuals interested in exploring the field of executive protection, and professionals already in the industry, will benefit from lectures and practical exercises focused on criminal and terrorist rends, operations and methods of attack.

Students will experience operating parameters, procedures and techniques of conducting an executive protection operation, formations, attack countermeasures, surveillance detection, site advances and mission planning. The important aspects of protective driving and tactical firearms proficiency will also be covered in detail.

The course, hosted by the Homeland Security Institute at College of DuPage, is presented by The Protection Institute LLC.

The culminating coursework exercise calls on participants to plan and carry out simulated operations leading students safely through each scenario.

Key course objectives include:
- Demonstrating proper communication and site advance procedures;
- Determining the appropriate use of force;
- Explaining mission-planning processes and considerations;
- Demonstrating tactics for responding to attacks on those in the students’ protection and on their associated vehicles.

The five-day, 50-hour course includes:
- Days 1-3: Basic Executive Protection Specialist Unarmed Certificate ($1,995);
- Day 4: Basic Pistol Marksmanship and Tactics ($650, ammunition included);

Students attending courses all five days for $2,995 receive Executive Protection Specialist certification.

Lunch is provided each day. Discount hotel rates and free shuttle service are available for out-of-town participants, and 50 percent off registration is available for a second participant from the same organization.
